The five artifacts needed to summon the first Lich Lord into this plane of existence are scattered throughout the realm.

You will need to first obtain the Soulstone of Kabar. When the Daemon Lord Beleth left these lands he hid this item within the depths of Dungeon Wrong.

The second item you will need to procure is the Blood of the Harbringer. This Blood was also hidden by the Daemon Lord Beleth, but in a far different place.
Within the lands of Ilshenar in the Dungeon Blood you will find this ancient artifact.

Next you will need the Parchment of Oblivion, it contains the Entropic Chant read so many times by the High Priest Bal-Anon Dak. The original Parchment is located in the Etherial Tomb in Ilshenar.

The fourth item you will need is the Mirror of Morgaz. Currently the Mirror is in the possession of the Necromancer Tyrantharaxus, he will not part with it easily.

Finally you will need to travel to the Dungeon Deciet on Daggar Island. Guarded by the Necromancer Niera and several other lesser minions is the Spellbook of Nizar. You will need to defeat Niera, travel to the last level of Deciet and finally slay the Lich Lords that guard the Spellbook. Your task is not an easy one, but only when you complete it can your goal be achieved.
